16 IN RED PLOT PUT TO DEATH

Face Firing Squad 24 Hours After Conviction of Trying To Overthrow Government

INCLUDE FORMER LEADERS

Trotzky Accused of Planning Conspiracy, Vows To Revenge Executions

MOSCOW Aug 25—Death before a firing squad ended today the careers of 16 confessed conspirators many of them once high in the ranks of Bolshevik leadership

They had been convicted a little over 24 hours before the death sentences were carried out secretly

A terse statement announced the executions after the central executive committee of the Soviet union declined an appeal for mercy

It was believed the execution took place at detention prison near the foreign office in the heart of Moscow Executions of this kind generally are believed to be carried out individually with each prisoner shot in the back

All had confessed their participation in the plot to which the exiled Leon Trotzky former minister of war and one time revolutionary zealot was linked as leader

The communique also did not explain why the action was so sudden A previous announcement had said the prisoners would have 72 hours of grace

Included among those who died were Leon Kameneff and Gregory Zinovieff once members with Dictator Joseph Stalin of the triumvirate at the head of the Soviet union during the illness of Nikolai Lenin

It was Stalin who forced Kameneff and Zinovieff outside party circles and it was he they planned first to kill in inaugurating a campaign of terror designed to overthrow the government.

Many of those executed had marched in the October revolution 19 years ago when the Bolsheviks fought the Czarists

During the five day trial the confessed conspirators were linked with the death in 1934 of Sergei Kiroff chief aid to Stalin Between 100 and 200 persons have paid with their lives and scores have been imprisoned for that assassination

There were indications today's executions would not end secret police search for other members of the conspiracy

Trotzky Promises To Revenge Deaths

HOENEFOSS Norway Aug 25—Leon Trotzky declared today it was his duty to revenge the 16 men executed in Moscow today for an anti Stalin conspiracy

The Soviet government accused Trotzky celebrated Bolshevist exile as the absent master of the plot

My duty is to unmask one of the greatest crimes in the world's history and to avenge the executed said Trotzky

Larger Fire and Police Forces Urgently Needed

Approval of Special Levy on Sept 4 Assures Return to Adequate Protection.

This is the first of a series of articles to be published by The Star to acquaint Marion residents with facts showing the urgent need of approving the two special realty tax levies to be voted on at a special city election Sept 4

By BOB BYRD
Marion Star Staff Writer

Marion electors will be given opportunity to vote Sept 4 on two levy proposals of one and one-half mills each

One levy would raise approximately $42 000 a year for a two-year period to restore the jobs of 11 firemen and nine policemen who were furloughed last May 23 when the city administration took drastic steps toward cutting expenses to fit the anticipated income for the year

The other would raise the same amount for city WPA projects Both levies are sought for two year periods

When Marion residents vote on the one and one half mill levy for the fire and police departments they will give their answer to the question Is it worth an additional 15 cents on each $100 tax valuation of real estate to have reasonably adequate fire and police protection?

It is significant city officials point out that even if this levy proposal is favored by voters Marion will have only reasonably adequate protection against fires and lawlessness A comparison of the previous full strength of these departments in Marion and other cities shows Marion had small forces before the furloughs were ordered they said

Smallest Forces in Years

If the levy is defeated Marion will be obliged to continue with less fire and police protection than at any time in the recent history of the city

Even in the days of horsedrawn fire equipment when Marion was a smaller city than it is today the fire department had 40 call men and four regular employes—and seldom were there fewer than 25 or 30 men answering calls Fire Chief T J McFarland points out

Under the existing furloughs only a handful of men are available to answer calls For example on the Masonic temple fire only seven men were available to answer the first alarm whereas 12 would have been sent immediately on the first alarm had the department been at its previous strength Chief McFarland said He added that a substantial part of the damage especially the water damage could have been avoided with a full force

Reason for Furloughs

The furloughs were adopted by the city administration last spring as the only alternative to a large 1936 operating deficit after a proposed 3.2 mill levy had been defeated at the May primary election Even with the furloughs it was impossible officials said at that time to pay the firemen and policemen more than 70 per cent of their full salaries for February March April and May They previously had received 90 per cent pay in January and beginning in June the men retained after the furloughs were put on an 85 per cent pay basis

Officials and groups sponsoring the special election today emphasized that

(1) The proceeds of the firemen's and policemen's levies will be used exclusively for the salaries of men employed in those departments

(2) The men now working in those departments and the furloughed men if restored to their positions would accept 85 per cent of their full salaries Fifteen per cent salary waivers have been signed by the men for 1936 and 1937

Nation Honors Memory of Woman Suffrage Pioneer

BY SIGRID ARNE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON Aug 25—Susan B Anthony sat down one night in the midst of her battle for women s rights to pen a despairing note to her mother

If I could only die and thereby fail honorably To live and fail is terrible

Now 20 years after her death Miss Anthony s memory is to be honored by a special stamp issue to go on sale first at Washington Aug 26

Gave Life To Cause

She seldom had a bank account It all went for the cause She took her first vacation when she was 64 and achieved her first home in Rochester N Y when she was 71

Susan B Anthony was a shy clothes loving school teacher when the first equal rights group met at Seneca Falls N Y in 1848 called together by Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucretia Mott Miss Anthony formed a life long friendship with Mrs Stanton Together over 50 years they were to give speeches write pamphlets beg money

By 1854 Miss Anthony was pleading with the New York legislature to pass a women s bill

The country was startled by the very fact that a woman had dared to address such a group But the bill was passed and in New York married women received the right to own property to have joint guardianship over their children and to claim as their own any wages they might earn

Crossed Words with Greeley

With the Civil war the suffragists forced to mark time lent aid to the Abolitionists But when the time came to write the fourteenth amendment giving the Negro men the right to vote Miss Anthony s request that women be included was denied

She exchanged fiery words with Horace Greeley the editor over the issue

You are aware that ballots and bullets go together said Greeley If you vote are you prepared to fight?

Certainly said Miss Anthony as you fought in the last war—behind a goose quill pen

The fourteenth amendment referred to citizens as a certain group of persons To Miss Anthony that meant women as well as men Wyoming had just given its women the right to vote so in 1869 Miss Anthony went to the polls in Rochester registered and voted Her act raised an enraged howl She was tried in 1872 found guilty and fined $100 She refused to pay and never did

Movement Wins Recruits

By 1888 congress took notice of the women s battle by devoting a day of the senate s time to discussion of an amendment giving women the right to vote It was defeated 16 to 34

Slowly though other states followed Wyoming Money for the cause flowed in to Miss Anthony Younger women rallied to her aid among them Carrie Chapman Catt and Alice Paul In 1900 Miss Anthony resigned as president of the national woman s suffrage association and asked that Mrs Catt succeed her

Miss Anthony died in 1906 but she left behind an army of younger women who carried on In 1913 a suffrage parade led by General Rosalie Jones greeted President Wilson on inauguration day He and his congress found no immediate answer for the women so the women set up a constant picket around the White House Finally in 1917 Wilson asked a congressional committee to report favorable the women s amendment

The amendment the twentieth was ratified into the constitution in 1920

A brother of the woman Ted P Olson said an argument o[illegible] a boy friend had also preceded the girl s disappearance Thursday night

Deputy coroners said the girl apparently was killed in her bed and the body dragged or carried to the burial site

The confession as announced by Bodia said last Thursday was the daughter s birthday and that the girl attended a party that night It continued come impatient and demand an immediate solution for our needs and problems. They are inclined to take short cuts—to have the thing done at one stroke, by the powerful hand of government. This was not the way in which our educational system was developed. It was the result of patient labor, long struggle and sustained devotion.

LANDON HITS AT PROPAGANDA WORK

"As you all know, it took the efforts of a full generation to win the fight for free public schools supported by tax levies. In this fight, the humiliating pauper school laws were the first to go. Then, after more years of effort, we wiped out the last law which, by levying charges upon the parents—denied schooling to the children of the poor.

"This meant that we at last recognized that an education is the birthright of every American child, that to provide for it is a common obligation of the community and of the state. This principle is the foundation upon which our tax-supported public school system has been built.

Schools Kept Pace

"At the same time, our schools have kept pace with the developments of modern life. The little red school house of the affectionate recollection of the older generation, was adapted to the needs of a simpler age. The school of today faces the problems of more complex conditions.

"Under the direction of a better educated and no less devoted teaching corps the public schools have gone far beyond the three R's. They have developed this way with the full approval and support of their public—a public which has always stood ready to undergo sacrifices to give adequate training to the future citizens of America. My own state, for example, devotes more than 40 per cent of each tax dollar to the support of the schools, and other communities and states act with corresponding liberality.

"One rung after another has been added to the ladder of free public education. Today we have the state universities, the agricultural colleges, the vocational schools, the junior colleges, and the free public libraries. It is a truly democratic ladder. Given the ability within himself, the child from any home can aspire to climb to the highest rung.

Freedom of Opportunity

"This freedom of educational opportunity has been one of the priceless assets of American life. It has been one of the great unifying forces of our nation. It has helped to train the people for our kind of government. It has maintained democracy at the grass roots.

"No one can study this record without being impressed by the imagination and constructive genius of the American people. In every sense, this movement for free public schools came from the people themselves.

"At each stage responsibility remained close to them. At no point has the federal government been required to assume charge. At no point has it been necessary to change any of the fundamental principles of self-government to make the desired progress. Because our people felt that the school system was their own, their interest in education has always been maintained. They wanted schools that would give their children better opportunities than they themselves had enjoyed, and they were willing to make sacrifices that they would not make for any other public purpose.

"Strong religious convictions led groups of our people to establish private schools and colleges at their own expense. No better proof is necessary to show the vitality of religion. Such devotions to principle has made this country great. Throughout our history, religion and education have worked hand in hand. Each owes much to the other; neither can realize its full possibilities without the other.

Schools Great Success

"It seems to me, this is largely the reason why, next to our government, our educational system is our greatest public effort. It has been well termed our outstanding success. The development has taken time, it is true. The processes of a democracy are always slower than those of an all-powerful government. But they are likely to be more certain of good results.

"One of the best of these results has been our leaders. We have always welcomed natural leaders, in education, religion, business and government. They could lead in a democracy, because their purpose was service, not power for its own sake.

"Our system of free education has failed if class distinctions are allowed to develop in this country. We must look to our teachers to see that they do not develop.

"An excellent example of the freedom which exists today in our educational institutions, is the active interest always taken by educators in our social, political, and economic problems. In some instances, the arguments and conclusions advanced by our institutions of learning have jarred the viewpoints of those who are unable to see the necessity for change.

"But many examples could be cited of progressive policies in government and in business, which have had their origin in our educational institutions. Education can usually be counted upon to encourage change when change means progress. Thus our educational system has not been a thing apart from that restless search of the American people for ways of doing new things, and doing old things better. This is as it should be."

EUROPE SEEKS TO HALT WAR BRUTALITY

there have been frequent reports of the mistreatment of prisoners and civilians by both the Socialist government and the Fascist rebels.

It is these violations of international rules of war which the proposals are designed to check: not the war itself.

Civil fires burned in Spain toward their ultimate Fascist or Socialist embers in a European atmosphere made suddenly more breathless by Nazi-decreed expansion of the German army.

Not connected directly with the civil war between Spain's Socialist government, supported by Communists, and the military rebels who carry the banner of fascism, Adolf Hitler's doubling of the universal military term in the reich served, nevertheless, to throw the whole international conflict between right and left into sharp relief.

His decree of two years' compulsory service under arms was aimed directly at what the Nazis called aggressive Soviet Russian militarism.

Leftist France, thrown into new concern by the ukase, reckoned that in 1937, the reich's fighting men would total 1,200,000, or nearly twice the French strength of 605,000.

Reich authorities, however, estimated the military measure would mean a German army of between 700,000 and 800,000.

Soviet Russia, to which France is bound by treaty ties of mutual assistance, has an estimated fighting force of 1,300,000, largest in the world.

In Moscow, commentators said the Hitler decree showed "how intensively Germany prepares for war."

Madrid dispatches told of the arrest by the Socialist government of the priest who once was confessor to Alfonso and Victoria, Bourbon rulers of the peninsula.

They also related a new purge of the capital's Fascists, including the execution of four rebel officers accused of starting a fire and mutiny in the model Madrid prison.

Loyalists and rebels broadcast conflicting claims of victory in Guadarrama mountain fighting, just north of Madrid.

OFFICIALS LAUD BIKE SAFETY CAMPAIGN

many entries as he or she wishes.

"I think this safety contest is a fine thing," Chief Marks said, in discussing the assistance "safety conscious" boy and girl bicycle riders could be to the police department.

He offered this tip to bicycle owners, too: Keep the serial number of the vehicle written down somewhere in the house. As soon as school starts and hundreds of boys and girls go back and forth on bicycles, the police department's troubles with lost and stolen bicycles begin.

During the winter months the police department has on an average of 10 lost and stolen bicycles reported every month, and the department generally recovers about eight. If the department has the serial number identification is much easier.

"I think this bicycle safety contest cannot be stressed too much, because of the many bicycles appearing on the streets and the carelessness shown by the youngsters in riding them," Judge Gast said.

The judge called particular attention to cyclists who dart out of side streets and alleys, off sidewalks and into the streets, and in and out of moving lanes of traffic.

Chief McFarland, who talks "safety" to boys and girls all the time, said:

"It's a fine way to make our boys and girls take more precautions and it will be a good thing for the grownups, too, to realize that as pedestrians and automobile owners, have their part to play in making bicycle riding safe."

DR. TOWNSEND SURE HIS PLAN WILL WIN

do is to order the money drawn from the account. I merely tell the treasurer what I'm going to use it for."

His statements followed Eacharow's demand of by what authority Dr. Townsend turned over $500 of the movement's funds to Townsend Visual Education, a Baltimore stereopticon project, after ordering National Treasurer Baxter G. Rankine to "keep still" about it.

The doctor said the "keep still" order was given because of opposition of R. E. Clements, who later resigned as national secretary.

The band of Dr. Townsend's defenders who attended yesterday's all-day hearing applauded when their leader said he considered payment of Mrs. Townsend's travel expenses "part of the price" of his services.

PUPILS TO ATTEND STATE FAIR MONDAY

Group To Be Taken to Columbus Exposition in School Busses.

Pupils of the Grand Prairie school district will be among the hundreds of other rural school children in the state at the eighty-sixth Ohio State fair, on the opening day, Monday.

Plans for sending the children to the fair were made at a meeting of the district board of education last night. The children will be guests of the fair board for the day and admission to the various exhibits and entertainment will be free.

About 100 children, including all but the smaller pupils will make up the party for the one-day outing. They will leave Grand Prairie schoolhouse at 7 a. m. sharp in the school busses and will be in full charge of the bus drivers on the trip and throughout the day. No school children will be admitted free unless they arrive at the grounds in the school bus.

The "school children's day" is a new feature of the fair program this year and it is expected that there will be a record attendance.

So far Grand Prairie school is the only one in the county to announce plans for attending the fair on the opening date.

EFFINGER'S HEARING OPENS IN COLUMBUS

Detroit has described the portly Effinger, Lima electrical contractor, as the national commander of the Black legion, whose activities have been under investigation in Michigan for several months.

In his shirt sleeves, Effinger spent the time during the delay in starting the hearing busily fanning himself with his straw hat.

He has described as "nonsense" the charges, based on affidavits by Dayton Dean, held in Detroit as the triggerman in a slaying attributed to the legion.

Serving notice of a last-ditch fight, Miller said "the burden of proof is on the state of Michigan." Should the extradition request be granted, he declared he would throw the case into common pleas court in Lima with a contest of sufficiency of whatever warrant might be issued against Effinger.

McCrea named Effinger in a warrant accusing him of bringing a suitcase full of explosives to Detroit last year. Lima authorities refused to hold him on this count. Circuit Judge James E. Chenot of Detroit immediately indicted Effinger and 21 others on the criminal syndicalism and conspiracy charges. Thirteen were arrested.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Guy W. Jensen of Michigan said Dayton Dean named Effinger in an affidavit as leader of a plot for an armed revolt Sept. 16, with plans calling for seizure of arsenals and government buildings.

After an examination of the papers by both sides, Miller attacked the requisition on the ground it failed to comply with Ohio statutes.

It concerned only the charge involving the possession of bombs. Consideration of the other charges was deferred until later to permit Miller a chance to study them further.

"These papers fall far short of complying with the Ohio Code," Miller said. "We have here the prosecuting attorney of Wayne county (Detroit) certifying what the laws of Michigan are. These may be true, but it is not the prosecutor's place to certify them."

Leasure interrupted him to say. "The Ohio extradition law does not require certifying of laws of a requesting state."

Miller also contended that the papers did not have any information from Prosecutor McCrea.

Ricca objected and Leasure said: "I note the first objection that there is no information. I find, however, that there is one included."

Kugel said that Miller's objection should be withdrawn.

Leasure asked the attorneys to "stick to issues or otherwise we'll flounder around here all day."

"We can pass only on the question whether your client (Effinger) is a fugitive from Michigan. We cannot pass on his innocence, but we will hear any evidence you care to present on the issues of his being a fugitive," Leasure said.

Epworth M. E. Group Takes Honor at Lakeside.

The Senior Epworth league of Epworth M. E. church was awarded a plaque, and three members of the organization were awarded certificates for the completion of study courses, at the annual Epworth League institute at Lakeside, last week. The plaque was in recognition of the league's participation in athletic events, presenting a tableau and attending classes for the week. Miss Evelyn Showers and LaVerne Nash were awarded certificates for completing their study course, and Miss Dorothy Snider received a certificate for completing her post-graduate work. The party returned home Sunday.

Fifteen members from Marion Epworth League attended the week's session, under the supervision of Rev. Franklin G. Markley, pastor of Epworth M. E. church, and Mrs. Markley. More than 900 young people attended from the Defiance, Toledo and Lima districts. The group will go to Lakeside Sunday to present the play, "The Unlighted Cross."

LIQUOR 'SHAKEDOWN' CHARGES ARE DENIED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 25—Morris Morgenstern, former business manager of "The Ohioan," a publication of the Democratic state committee, denied at a hearing today any knowledge of "shakedown" complaints made by Clarence Harrison, a Columbus liquor permit holder.

State Democratic Chairman Francis Poulson, summoned to testify at the hearing before the state liquor board, did not appear at the morning session. His secretary explained that he had not returned from New York where he joined in a welcome for Jesse Owens, Olympic ace.

The hearing resulted from Harrison's allegation that he paid $700 to Charles G. Gregg, former director of "The Ohioan," as "insurance."

Morgenstern denied knowledge of the alleged payment in the form of subscription orders, orders for advertising and the purchase of stock in the newspaper. Questioned by Assistant Attorney General Isadore Topper, Morgenstern said he was business manager of "The Ohioan" in name only—that Gregg handled all its business. Liquor department inspectors have been unable to serve Gregg with a subpoena to appear before the board.

OHIO LEGIONNAIRES ASK OUSTER OF HINES

By The Associated Press

PORTSMOUTH, O., Aug. 25—Ohio Legionnaires adopted by a voice vote today a resolution urging removal of Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines as administrator of the U. S. veterans' administration.

A few hours before the selection of 1937 officers of the Ohio department of the American Legion at its annual convention here, Samuel H. Cobb of Columbus appeared to be the likely choice for commander to succeed Milton D. Campbell of Cincinnati.

Columbus was chosen as the 1937 convention city.

The resolution concerning Hines asserted he was "catering to politics rather than the best interests of war veterans." It also expressed dissatisfaction with the conduct of government hospitals for soldiers under his administration.

Another resolution urged the erection by the state of a new school building at the Ohio Soldiers' & Sailors' Orphans' home at Xenia and termed the present building a "firetrap." It requested an increase in funds appropriated to the institution.

A comprehensive conservation program was recommended in a resolution which expressed opposition to policing of Ohio streams.

Legion officials estimated that more than 4,000 members paraded late yesterday as showers snapped 100-degree temperatures of two days' standing.

In the annual department music competition sponsored by the Legion auxiliary, the Lima choral club, directed by Mrs. John Urder, won first prize. Toledo was second, Columbus third.

HARDIN CO. FARMERS FIGHT SCHOOL LAW

15 in Roundhead District File Suit To Test Foundation Program.

Special to The Star

KENTON, Aug. 25—A suit to test the constitutionality of the school foundation law, instituted by 15 electors of Roundhead rural school district, was filed late Monday in Hardin county common pleas court. It was directed against the county board of education. It charged that the action on the part of the board was not for the benefit of the pupils, but was for the purpose of adding taxable territory to the Alger-Roundhead district and deducting taxes from the Roundhead rural district.

Constitutionality of the foundation program under which the redistricting was made was contested because of the lack of suitable remedy at law for an aggrieved person to appeal his differences to either a court or to submit the same to a vote of the electorate.

Okey Van Dyne of Ada is attorney for the Roundhead rural school district electors in the first suit seeking to restrain the redistricting program. Other suits may be filed this week by local attorneys, representing electors of several rural school districts surrounding Kenton.

DISCOVER ATTEMPT TO LOOT STORE

An attempted break-in at the Hewser Jewelry Store at 141 East Center street was discovered after police investigated a break-in at the office of Attorney J. Wilbur Jacoby at 130 East Center street, which is located in the second floor of the same building.

Police said the attempted entry was apparently made at the same time the Jacoby office was entered and that access to roof of the store could have been made by using the stairway leading to the hallway where the office is located.

A window in a skylight at the rear of the building was broken out and a rear door into an empty storage room had been opened, police said. Doors which lead from the empty room into the front of the store had not been tampered with.

Canadian Stork Derby Enlivened By Dark Horse

TORONTO, Aug. 25—(Canadian Press)—The first dark horse in the $500,000 Millar baby derby appeared today to tie two others for second place.

The Canadian Press discovered pretty, red-headed "Mrs. X" has given birth to 10 children since Charles Vance Millar, a Toronto lawyer, died Oct. 31, 1926, and left the money to the Toronto mother giving birth to the most children in the subsequent 10 years.

This 24-year-old mother was found in her small apartment over a store in Toronto taking care of the twin boys born to her a few weeks ago. Her identity is withheld at her request. She has never been mentioned among the seven women who claim to have had from eight to 12 children and who have been considered the leaders.

The tomb of General Ulysses S. Grant, which overlooks the Hudson river in New York City, was built by popular subscription.

I did not [illegible] complete the mendacious [illegible] Katie was on her feet [illegible] her hands wrested from mine and one of them pointing dramatically to a cloth-covered table at the rear of the room

I told [illegible] you und Meester Graham be starved to death ven you coom he said und ven dey tell me I no can cook in keetchen tonight because curtains no so teeck I shoost pound my brains like dees

Katie Has Idea

She dramatically cudgeled her head with her fists while Lillian behind her doubled over in silent laughter and Harry Underwood and Dicky covered guffaws with coughs But I directly facing her had no such refuge and I have had few harder tasks than that of keeping my facial muscles immovable and my eyes gravely interested as my histrionic housekeeper swept on

Den I have swell idea—eet shoost coom like lightning she said pride investing every line of her Me I put me down old rug in corner of dees room so I no spill anytings Den I bring in keetchen table und I cover eet [illegible] ole electric stove [illegible] I [illegible] go out [illegible] Den I [illegible] feex und [illegible] Now all I [illegible] everyting [illegible]

Harry to Rescue

As in many dilemmas before I sent an appealing glance to Lillian [illegible] conscious that I did so But it was Harry Underwood who [illegible] caught it or not came to the rescue in unexpected but thoroughly satisfactory fashion

Look here you folks he said you're not actually starving to death are you? You surely must have had a crust of bread or a cracker somewhere along the route

Katie giggled and I knew that the dramatic tension was lessened for the moment at least

We had a full Turkish dinner at five-thirty Dicky said promptly and with emphasis

Katie sniffed audibly and we did not need words to register the opinion of Turkish or any other alien food

Then Mr Underwood said judiciously It is the opinion of this court that you will not pass out on us from starvation indeed that you will appreciate Katie's matchless viands —he made her a stately bow and she giggled again— far better if you wait to eat until the arrival of our guest He will no doubt be hungry and it lacks little more than an hour until his scheduled arrival

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE

A New Novel by Marian Sims

By Marian Sims

[illegible] Carol Torrance has [illegible] she has a [illegible] by name Blake [illegible] she has some [illegible] she wanted just [illegible] should be happy. [illegible] trouble is that she can[illegible] the obvious fact [illegible] his wife are not [illegible] Thornton spends her [illegible] the mountains, and [illegible] in Florida. Blake has [illegible] week-end with [illegible] certainly did not [illegible] like a man who expected [illegible] himself when he [illegible]

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT.
[illegible] for Dinner.

BLAKE [illegible]pped several sheets [illegible] on Carol's desk.

"[illegible] Cleaners have just [illegible] Martex equipment, [illegible] want a quarter-page ad [illegible]. Here's the technical in[illegible] you'll know how much [illegible] customer would be interested."

[illegible] without speaking, [illegible] began to study the information. [illegible] hands of her watch [illegible] half-past three; she would [illegible] have time to finish [illegible].

She took it to him at five o'clock, [illegible] while he read it. Probably [illegible] thought without resentment [illegible] he wouldn't like it at all.

He read it through and [illegible]. "You do take down [illegible] hair with 'em, don't [illegible]." He added carelessly: "If you don't mind waiting ten minutes I'll drive you home."

She said frankly: "I'd wait an hour to avoid that street car."

"It must be awful. Tell the other girls I'll take them too; they're all my beat, but they probably feel the same way."

The four of them talked very little during the drive to West End. Within the office they were at ease, bound by a common interest. Outside its walls, and in Blake's presence, they were strangers to each other, and their talk was shouted across a gulf of different backgrounds. At their own doorways Freddie and Laura thanked him profusely, and were engulfed by their own homes.

When they were alone Carol said abruptly: "Blake, it's perfectly insane for you to work all summer. It's not even good business, because you're bound to pay for it sooner or later. Why on earth don't you go to Rockbrook for at least a week or ten days?"

He turned his head and smiled briefly at her. "Have you ever seen Rockbrook?"

"No, but I've seen several of its cousins. Even if it bores you, you ought to have several days of rest. Bored people usually get fat, don't they? 'Fat and bored:' they go together like ham and eggs."

"Maybe. I'd rather be thin."

"Then go somewhere else."

"I can't afford to go anywhere, [illegible]."

"Rot. You can't afford not to."

"Well, I'm not going to, so you might as well save your thoughtfulness for a worthier object. Not," he added softly, after several seconds, "that I'm not flattered as the devil to have it."

She sighed, and gave him up. For the rest of the way they sat wrapped in their own thoughts. At the Sherwood she faced him impulsively, moved by the loneliness that lay so often behind his eyes. "Why don't you come in and have dinner with me?"

He shook his head. "Let you cook for me on a night like this? You're a peach to suggest it, but I wouldn't think of it." He added recklessly: "Suppose I come back in an hour or so and get you to have dinner with me."

"No. I've done that twice already. I've got food in the refrigerator that has to be fixed, and it's no more trouble to fix it for two. Maybe eating too many restaurant meals is what's dragging you down." She had seen wistfulness flicker for an instant across his face, and she knew he wanted to come. And so she insisted. "Come on, please!"

"Now where's the silver and what-not?"

He wavered. "Oh, hell, I can resist anything but temptation. You brought it on yourself."

"I meant to. Park your car and come on."

"No: I'll go home and have a shower, and give you a chance to do likewise. I'll be back in thirty or forty minutes and set the table."

Suddenly he looked years younger, and for the first time she despised Irma Thornton. Heretofore Irma had been a shadowy subject for speculation, but a man who could be pleased with so little had obviously been given nothing. She nodded.

"That's better still. Come back whenever you're ready."

She bathed and put on a green and white voile dress that had seen better days, and then went into the kitchen to take an inventory. There was a fat letter from Jill, but she wanted to read it unhurriedly, so she put it aside.

Sweetbreads: fortunately she had ordered enough for two days. Romaine and endive for a salad. A fresh loaf of French bread. Potatoes to be boiled and then baked for a few minutes in the oven. Sliced raw carrots that had lain all day in icewater—the lucky devils! Nothing for dessert, but Camembert and hard crackers were better than dessert anyhow.

Blake came back in a spotless linen suit. He looked around her apartment with quick approval.

"You've got the touch, haven't you? Now where's the silver and what-not?"

"In the kitchen cabinet." It would have been easier to do it herself, but apparently he enjoyed the illusion of usefulness. "But you can't work unless you take off that gorgeous coat. I won't stand for such desecration."

He grinned and obeyed. "Now that you've seen it, I don't care if I do." He pointed at the gate-legged table. "Do we eat on that?"

"No. I hate the things; there's never any place for your knees. Put up that card table—I swear it's dependable—and move it where we can get a breeze from the fan." She went back to the kitchen and left him to fend contentedly for himself.

"Say," he demanded from the doorway, "why not move the fan in the kitchen while you're working?"

"Because there is a trick ventilator." She began on the cream sauce.

He leaned against the kitchen door. "What next?"

"Nothing. Sit in that chair by the fan and read the evening paper. It's on the table."

"Why can't I talk to you?"

"Because I've got a one-track mind. I'd put ice in the sweetbreads instead of the coffee."

He went back and opened the paper, but the headlines were meaningless. He was too lazily content to read of the heat wave and the European situation.

Blake and Carol have a disturbing dinner, tomorrow.

The Stars Say—
FOR WEDNESDAY, August 26

While this will be a day of great opportunity and excellent prospects, yet there may be stubborn obstacles or delays, and difficulties born of duplicity, trickery fraud or other sinister phases to be coped with. With wariness, precaution and sound judgment, there may be the good offices of persons of influence and high standing to be counted upon in the solution of such difficult problems or treacheries. This latter menace is also found in private affairs.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of excellent promise, with definite new opportunities and fresh avenues of progress. But these are beset by obstructions, disappointments, delays and confusions to be persistently manipulated. With patience, wariness and diligence, there may be attracted the intervention of those in power and position whose wisdom and good counsel will be vital. Be alert to duplicity and sinister angles both in business and in intimate personal relations.

A child born on this day may be efficient and ambitious, and may attract the attention of those in high places who might assist it to power in diplomatic circles.

Notable nativity Franz Hals, painter.

LAWRENCE REVIEWS OREGON SITUATION

ingly. There is no reason why the government should not get electricity rates down lower than private companies if the projects are efficiently managed, if they are financed at low rates of interest through government aid, and if exemption from taxes is provided. But the fly in the ointment is the necessity for continued governmental subsidies until the users of electricity are sufficiently numerous to justify the removal of the subsidies.

There's another joker, too, which is not satisfactorily explained to the person who wants to look at those huge hydroelectric projects from a disinterested standpoint. It is this: If the government is going into the power business, why shouldn't it go into the shoe business and provide lower cost shoes for the millions of poor people of America? There is plenty of leather hereabouts and probably leather can be converted into shoes more economically by building tanneries in the northwest than by sending the hides to distant tanneries.

In other words, surplus power made available at Bonneville and Grand Coulee can be disposed of only if there are large industrial users. And why should industries move to states which are showing such a marked trend toward government ownership or "production for use"? And where is the natural market for the goods made? The populous areas of America are far distant from here and the freight rates thus become a barrier.

Some day, for economy reasons, when federal subsidies must be examined not in the light of political or regional values but in the true national interest, the sales talk to attract industries here will have to be of a different kind than is heard nowadays from the political stump in the northwest.

Hot Weather Hasn't Caused Me to forget those Sub-Zero Days Last Winter

Gas Heat Met the Crisis

Hot summer days make last winter seem a long time ago. But remember those sub-zero temperatures—those biting winds—the prolonged cold that seemed never to relinquish its icy grip. Gas heat met the test of that record winter. Uniform, healthful warmth was maintained in gas heated homes through it all—and at a most reasonable cost, as shown by actual check of hundreds of Ohio residences.

Another winter is not far off. Your heating problem again becomes most important. Solve it this winter with clean, automatic gas heat. Mail the coupon now for a free heating survey of your home—a service which incurs no obligation.

Shovel Wins Flag; "World Series" To Start Wednesday

DIGGERS WIN FROM HUBER TO CAPTURE COMMERCIAL CROWN

Score 4-1 Victory in Play Off of Tie in Standings

By gaining a 4 to 1 victory over the Huber team last night at Lincoln park the Marion Steam Shovel club won the Commercial league pennant and the right to participate in the Little World Series of Marion softball which is to begin Wednesday. After completing the season's schedule in a deadlock the two Commercial loop leaders met last night in the play-off.

Both teams battled evenly at the start of the conflict and neither scored until the Shovel outfit tallied three runs in the third frame. Huber's aggregation, the entry which went 10 straight games without a single defeat during the season's schedule, was held to a lone run, a homer in the third stanza by Conkle. The Diggers added a score to its advantage in the fifth inning and emerged victorious as neither team scored during the remainder of the game.

The Huber team's inability to hit in the pinches gave the team but one run on eight hits. Two fielding errors of the defeated team proved costly and aided the Shovel club to its pennant victory.

Maynard Snyder, the winning hurler, permitted the Huber batters to collect eight hits but never more than two safeties in a single inning. He fanned five and issued two passes to first. Walters, Huber's moundsman, gave out but three hits, struck out 10 batters and issued three walks.

The only extra base hit of the M S S squad was garnered by Andrews who tripled with two men on base in the third inning while Conkle circuit-clouted and B Gibson doubled for the defeated club.

M S S will oppose Wesley and Lee Street in the Little World Series with the opening game set for Wednesday night when Wesley, No 2 loop winner, and Lee Street, holder of the No 1 league pennant, clash at Lincoln park.

The score by innings of last night's game follows:

M S S 003 010 0—4 3 0
Huber 001 000 0—1 8 2

Snyder and Andrews; Walters and Conkle.

TITLE GAME NEAR

By The Associated Press

BISMARCK N D Aug 25—The west coast held the limelight in the sectional American Legion junior baseball tournament here today with Los Angeles and Seattle paired in the title game.

Sixteen top-ranked professional golfers who competed in the recent Inverness Invitational tournament at Toledo scored a total of 303 birdies. Writers who selected a list of bests among the tournament competitors chose Lawson Little and Henry Picard as their drivers, Tommy Armour and Walter Hagen as the iron players and Craig Wood and Denny Shute as the putters.

Bud Parmelee, St Louis Cardinals pitcher, attributes his improved work this season to his abstinence from coffee and tobacco.

Getting Set for Tennis Nationals Sept. 3

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The national tennis singles championships for men and women will open at the West Side tennis club, Forest Hills, N Y, Sept 3.

All tennis tournaments of the summer are incidental to this. All tennis players of any note in the summer competition have been looking forward to September and preparing for the nationals.

This is the U S tournament made famous on the feminine side by the Helen Wills Moody-Helen Hull Jacobs feud. This year it is the tournament that will mark the end of the Moody-Jacobs domination of the American courts or will see the Jacobs dynasty more firmly established than ever.

Miss Jacobs Goes On

When Miss Jacobs returned to the U S after winning the Wimbledon women's crown this year—the title that always eluded her during the regime of Helen Wills Moody—she greeted ship reporters with a bright victory smile and said:

"Winning was wonderful."

Was? Did that mean she intended to retire now that she possesses the two most sought after championships open to feminine netters? No indeed, Helen continued.

"For me the end of the tennis trail seems a long, long way off."

That may be. But the fact remains that for Helen Hull Jacobs of Berkeley Calif the national women's singles this year can be nothing but an anticlimax to the 1936 season. Cut this: Miss Jacobs is the only woman since Molla Bjurstedt Mallory who has ever held the national women's title four years in a row. Miss Jacobs won in 1932 33 34 35.

Helen Jacobs looks to be as far ahead in the women's field as Fred Perry of Great Britain appears in the men's. But other established favorites have appeared permanent, too. And if you've been following tennis closely of late you have seen stories about several court princesses who may overthrow the queen.

If this is the year then for America's queen to feel the sting of defeat it is likely one of these girls will succeed to the throne:

Sarah Palfrey Fabyan: Mrs Fabyan shares the national women's doubles crown with Miss Jacobs. This same team won this same title in 1932 and 1934. Mrs Fabyan, then Miss Palfrey, paired with Betty Nuthall to win in 1930. In 1935 Miss Jacobs defeated Mrs Fabyan in the national singles finals 6 [illegible] 6 4.

Kay Stammers: This good looking gal, who hoes a garden in her spare time, is Great Britain's hope for the American title. She has beaten Helen Jacobs in Wightman cup matches. Kay is a dress designer in a London West End store and is the fashion plate of the tennis world.

Alice Marble: Ranked third in 193[illegible]. Miss Marble is back after a prolonged layoff due to illness. She won the Seabright tournament from Carolin Babcock, ranked fourth nationally, 6 0, 6-3. Her backhand carries power and her cross court shots have beaten many an opponent. She has won often because of a brilliant serve.

Helen Pederson: This is the Stamford Conn girl who doesn't realize how good she is. At East Hampton N Y, in the Maidstone tournament, she beat two of the country's first 10 women netters on two successive days. Coming up from the girls' ranks where she became national champion, Helen displays splendid court covering and a brilliant assortment of strokes.

Brewers Check Kansas City's Rush Toward Second Place Spot

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO Aug 25—A collision with Milwaukee's league leading Brewers today had slowed down Kansas City's rush toward second place in the American association race.

St Paul, holder of second position, took a 9 to 3 beating from Minneapolis yesterday and a victory for the Blues over Milwaukee in their night game would have meant a tie for the runnerup spot. The Brewers however preserved the Saints' one game margin over Kansas City by shoving over a run in the last of the ninth for a 4 to 3 decision.

Minneapolis did enough scoring in the first inning to beat the Saints.

Columbus rallied in the late innings to defeat Toledo 9 to 5 in the only other game.

Wesley and Lee Street To Clash in Opening Game at Lincoln Park

Marion's annual softball classic—the Little World Series—will begin tomorrow night at Lincoln park. Wesley and Lee Street, winners of the pennants in the Sunday school leagues, will clash in the opening game set for 6:15 o'clock.

Drawings for positions in the double elimination series were made at the Y M C A last night following the Marion Steam Shovel team's pennant victory over the Huber team in the Commercial league play-off.

Managers of the three teams were present at the drawings which resulted in matching Wesley, No 2 loop winner, and Lee Street, flag bearer of No 1 league, in the opening contest of the 1936 series. The club which gains a victory in the opening battle will meet the M S S aggregation the following Monday night at Lincoln park.

In the double elimination series a team must be defeated twice before it loses the right of further competition.

For that reason it is problematical how many games it will be necessary to play to select the 1936 champions. With the winner of tomorrow night's contest meeting the M S S club Monday, the defeated teams of both conflicts will clash the following Wednesday.

With the two losing teams pitted against each other the game will naturally eliminate one of the contestants. The club which wins the contest will have but one defeat marked against it and gain the right to participate in at least one additional conflict.

All of the Little World Series games will be played at Lincoln park as twilight games with regular umpires officiating. Softball commission officials announced that the competing teams must be on the field and ready to play ball at 6:15 o'clock. Fielding or batting practice, the commissioners said, must be completed before that time and umpires will be instructed to start the games on schedule.

To the winner of the Little World series goes the honorary title of city softball champion. The series with the leading teams from each of the twilight leagues competing is the playoff for the 1936 championship.

Nichols Defeats Tremaine in Open-Air Wrestle Tilt

Tony Estes, who is fast becoming a favorite of Marion wrestling fans, won one of the rough and tough Ken Hollis in one of the featured bouts on last night's grappling program at the Lincoln avenue arena. Jack Nichols of Tampa Fla, who put in his first appearance here in two years, won over Andy Tremaine, the youthful Arizonan, in the other headliner.

The Tremaine-Nichols [illegible] was clean wrestling and fans witnessed a never exchange of holds. Nichols, the strong dark haired ring veteran, edged out of Tremaine [illegible] neck scissors but left himself open to a tough keylock. The Arizonan worked on Nichols' left arm until the Tampa mat man freed himself from the keylock. Nichols renewed an attack with a headlock but Tremaine gained a rolling [illegible] lock to score the first fall [illegible] minutes.

Tremaine opened the second round with neck holds [illegible] shake but the wily Nichols applied a head twist and finished the fall in five minutes by [illegible] a head scissor. In the third fall Nichols was [illegible] in a try for a keylock but did gain a hammerlock. Tremaine pulled out of the hold and used a chin lift and a series of body [illegible] to nail the Florida grappler. [illegible] was near scoring the fall when Nichols countered with a shoulder bump, a series of head [illegible] and a body press to win the third round at the end of six minutes.

Estes, who carried the plaudits of the crowd with him, gave an excellent account of himself against the hefty Ken Hollis, who hails from New Mexico. Hollis lost the first round by disqualification after Referee Pop Browning of Toledo had warned him repeatedly about illegal eye gouging and punching. Browning separated the combatants on three occasions before awarding the first round to Estes at the end of 17 minutes. Estes refused to abide by the decision until an irked crowd surged to the ringside and threatened to accept his invitation to step into the ring.

In a seven minute second round Estes opened with a head hold and body spill but Hollis gained a toe hold which required a punt to the chest to dislodge. Estes applied a tough leg spread but released the grip when Hollis choked his way out. After a brief exchange of body jolts Estes leaped into the air and planted a punt to Hollis' chin which decided the second fall in his favor. The Oklahoman pinned Hollis' shoulders with a body press to end the final round in seven minutes.

Speedy Shaffer of East St Louis and Speedy LaRance of Montreal Canada, both well known here by followers of the mat sport, tangled in the 20-minute preliminary. Shaffer's rough tactics led him into [illegible] of [illegible] as the shifty LaRance [illegible] him [illegible] under [illegible] LaRance used a [illegible] scissors on Shaffer [illegible] a barrage of pinches and was [illegible] a fall when the [illegible].

ROOK, 17, FANS 15

One of the most spectacular pitching performances in the American league in years thrilled thousands of baseball fans at League park at Cleveland when Bob Feller, above, 17 year old rookie, struck out 15 St Louis Browns to win a 4 to 1 victory for the Cleveland Indians. It was Feller's first start in a championship game in organized baseball.

CARDS SHOVED INTO TIE WITH GIANTS FOR LEAGUE LEAD

National Loop Pennant Race May Be Decided by Sept. 4

By The Associated Press

The National league pennant race may be decided between now and Sept 4 although the season still has more than a month to run.

The stage was set for a crucial tour yesterday when the Pittsburgh Pirates, replaying [illegible] game, handed the St Louis gashouse gang an unmerciful 1[illegible] to 5 drubbing and sent them into a tie with the idle New York Giants for first place.

Today the Giants, showing no sign of the late-season cracks that have marked their campaigns, open an important swing through the western half of the circuit.

Paul Dean, making his first start since July 4, showed no signs of the sore arm which has been bothering him, but couldn't keep the Cards on top. Given a comfortable lead on a four run blast that drove [illegible] Birkofer out in the third, he weakened in the fourth inning and retired before an attack that [illegible] the count.

Ed Heusser was the victim of a six run blast in the next inning and the Bucco bats played the same tune against George Earnshaw and Flint Rhem to pile up a total of 25 blows.

Meanwhile the Cubs, only [illegible] games off the pace and in a fine spot to go places if they hit the same clip in their [illegible] park as they did at the same time last year, had a stiff struggle with Cincinnati's Reds. They finally won out in the tenth inning 2 to 1 when errors by Les Scarsella and Alex Kampouris put Frank Demaree on third and Augie Galan singled him home.

In the only other game on the big league program the Chicago White Sox continued their bid for third place in the American league by hammering out an 8 to 4 decision over Detroit's Tigers. Neither Tommy Bridges nor Vic Sorrell could check the Chicago batters.

In Crosley Field Cincinnati there are more than 16,300,000 square inches of fair territory.

Freedom and Security

In a [illegible] the West Middlesex message Gov. Landon [illegible] out from [illegible] far from the [illegible] with [illegible] cornerstone. It was his expressed [illegible] that freedom and security are not incompatible.

Too often the governor declared defeatists contend we must choose between freedom and security. We must say the [illegible] offering us this choice accept the ever increasing aid of a paternalistic government or go down into uncontrollable chaos. To these defeatists the era of expansion is over merely because the physical limits of our boundaries have been reached. New inventions new visions are impossible to these people. Only a strong centralized government can save us.

Let Americans applaud the governor's decision to focus the spotlight on this fundamental issue. This will do so because many new dealers frankly have told the voters federal power must be expanded if the nation is to be saved. These advocates of enlarged governmental powers have been careful to hedge their statements with reservations but it cannot be doubted that they have invited the people to give them an expansionist mandate.

It was fitting that Gov. Landon before he launched into discussion of a specific program should take time to challenge this basic philosophy on which the new deal was founded. It was fitting because the specific program the Democrats have to offer is grounded in that philosophic soil. It was fitting because the program the governor is to offer in succeeding speeches is rooted in a different a more traditionally American earth.

To the Republican presidential candidate and to millions of thoughtful citizens there is an American way out of the woods. The physical frontier may have been reached but the venturing spirit the spirit that conquered the physical frontier knows no limitations. It is the spirit of free enterprise that does not believe a permanent dole is a remedy for unemployment. It is a spirit that does not believe we have overproduced when so many Americans are badly clothed and badly housed. It is a spirit finally that can never be stifled while imagination and ingenuity distinguish American character.

At the moment Gov. Landon may not have dotted his i's and crossed his t's on the neutrality issue on the six hour day controversy and on the work relief question. But he has done something even more important. He has exposed his point of view to the American people the point of view with which he will tackle the problems before him. Hosts of Americans will find his point of view familiarly reassuring and sound.

Black Death

Once more a story of heroism has been written into the records. Once more the nation has waited anxiously for news of miners entombed in the hideous darkness of a cavein. Once more the nation has applauded the rescue work of an heroic band of men who fought desperately a race against death.

This time instead of Moose river New Brunswick the scene was Moberly Mo. As in the Canadian disaster death struck at Moberly but the welcome voices of the rescuers fell upon the ears of two living men. As at Moose river the elder of the two was in the better physical condition when rescued. He had [illegible] perhaps everything—during that dark night to cheer the spirits of his living companion and to prevent him from falling into a sleep from which he might not have awakened.

Such deeds of heroism have been told before. Fortunately they will be told again. So long as man's humanity to man can rise to such heights in times of crisis there is little need to fear the decadence of civilization. Disappointing [illegible] mankind [illegible] there are occasions when one can renew one's faith.

Moose river and Moberly are names worth remembering.

No Fun Any More

It's probably only a matter of time until the howl goes up that Michigan is misusing its criminal syndicalism law. It would not be surprising to hear talk about the invasion of civil liberties.

The Wolverine state happens to be using its criminal syndicalism law against members of the Black legion who have terrorized many Michigan residents and have [illegible] neighboring states.

The effect [illegible] happen [illegible] good. The night riding [illegible] have run into something they hadn't counted on—a stern force just as strong [illegible] not quite so [illegible] as the [illegible] with which they have [illegible].

Necessary Special Levies

[illegible] a serious situation [illegible] fire and police [illegible]

[illegible] more obvious as [illegible] calling for the services of [illegible] departments [illegible] essential to public safety.

It has also become distinctly clear that the only way the two departments can be [illegible] to a basis sufficient for the city's needs is by providing additional revenue through taxation.

No one is inclined to take an enthusiastic view of proposals for more taxes. The inclination is in the other direction as a rule but sometimes there are circumstances worse than tax boosts. That is what Marion is facing now.

The fact is that people of Marion are invited to make an investment for their own welfare and not a mere contribution in the form of taxes. It is an essential investment one necessary for security of their lives and property. Without it life and property will continue to be in increasing danger and it is within reason to presume that just one fire or one crime resulting from the present inadequate protection may cost far more than the proposed tax investment will amount to.

Under ordinary conditions the demand would be for the city government to reduce expenses in other departments and transfer funds for maintenance of the fire and police services. That is an impossibility now simply because there are no funds available for transfer. Tax revenues have been greatly reduced in the last few years and fixed charges for various inescapable purposes absorb all income. In addition a large operating debt is hanging over from other years. This is through no fault of the present administration which to the contrary has slashed expenses and effected all possible economies.

So it is apparent that the special mill and a half levy on real estate to be voted on Sept 4 provides the only means of restoring public safety in Marion to where it should be. Citizens of Marion realizing that their own welfare and that of the community as a whole is the one and only issue involved doubtless will give the levy their support.

The mill and a half levy proposed to obtain money for WPA projects likewise will provide for an urgent community need. It too is an investment rather than a contribution. In return for every dollar paid in taxes the city will get many times that amount for public improvements. In addition it will go a long way toward solving Marion's unemployment and relief problem during the next two years. Work will be given hundreds of men who otherwise will have to look for support of their families from relief funds which now are all too meager.

Right at this time numerous important works projects are awaiting means of financing. They have been approved by federal authorities and federal funds are available as soon as the city provides its share which in every instance is a small percentage of the total.

Beyond doubt Marion would be unwise in refusing to supply the funds which will yield such a profitable return. A vote for the WPA special levy will be a vote for this sound and sensible investment.

Oregon Situation Uncertain

Swept by Many Political Cross Currents Roosevelt Sentiment Strong But Not Decisive

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright 1936 by The Marion Star

PORTLAND Oregon Aug 25—For cross-currents this state seems to have about as many as there are anywhere in the union. That's why although there is a strong Roosevelt trend here the state is as yet undecided.

While Mr Roosevelt carried Oregon last time by more than 75,000 the indications are that he will have a greatly reduced majority this time and there are some on the Democratic side who are not so sure it will be decisive but only a small margin victory.

Part of the uncertainty in appraisal lies in the fact that the campaign has hardly gotten going yet. Even the business men who in most cities have become stirred up about the national campaign are to some extent apathetic. This partly arises out of a defeatist feeling analogous to that which prevailed among Republicans in the [illegible] last May.

In my talks with persons of every class here I found the lineup about the same as in the state of Washington—a distinct friendliness amounting to a genuine enthusiasm among the working masses for Mr Roosevelt and a sharp antagonism in the white collar groups which while not particularly active as yet beyond their own sphere may spread out more influentially as the campaign progresses.

I talked with a precinct committeeman from one of the poorer sections of the city. He was working hard for Mr Roosevelt admitted he didn't have much time to get around except evenings but that he was finding the working folks almost a unit for Mr Roosevelt. When I asked him what he thought of the outcome in this state he was quite sure it would not be a walkaway for the President but that at the moment the President had decidedly the edge. I had been impressed with the number of persons who speak of Oregon as likely to be a close state. I had come here with the distinct impression that it would go overwhelmingly for Mr Roosevelt.

Incidentally when I asked the Democratic precinct committeeman what subject he encountered most in his canvass he told me that the debt and expenditures of government was more often mentioned than anything else. He said people were beginning to ask when the debt was going to be paid back and who was going to pay it.

Portland is a city that has been especially conscious of financial problems because there's a mayor here Joseph Carson who has balanced the budget and because of it has just been assured of another four years in office by a majority vote in the primary. So evidently the people hereabouts would be considerably concerned about the national fiscal issue if it happened to be crystallized for them before the campaign is over.

As yet the idea of financing the deficits of the national government has not come to the surface of consideration and the atmosphere is still one of continual spending. The attitude is really that while the spending goes on or rather while the getting is good Oregon had just as well get her share. Hence all sorts of promises of an El Dorado character seems to be in the air. There isn't any candidate as yet proclaiming it in so many words but there are many people in Oregon I am told who believe the Roosevelt administration means to give them free power. Like free seed in the old days it has come to be a slogan in the agricultural areas.

The Oregon Journal leading Democratic paper in the state in a recent editorial throws light on the prevailing impression here that the federal government is about to finance transmissions and distribution systems. The editorial contends that the utilities are fighting the administration for these reasons:

Because Roosevelt built the Bonneville dam which offers cheap power to the users of electricity without any excessive profits to Wall Street holding companies or profits from write-ups or management contracts or fancy bonuses of one kind or another.

Because the Roosevelt administration proposes to build transmission lines through Oregon and Washington from which municipalities and farming districts can buy cheap power and distribute it themselves through distributing systems financed wholly or in part by the United States government.

Constitution or no Constitution the government of the United States is apparently in the power business in the northwest whether the excuse is navigation with respect to the Columbia river or irrigation in the state of Washington.

There are to be sure legitimate objectives of both navigation and irrigation at the Bonneville and the Grand Coulee dams but the sale of the surplus power has already become not an incidental consideration but a matter of threatened government competition with existing businesses.

Seeing the handwriting on the wall some of the private companies rather than become the football of politics are planning if the trend continues to sell out their properties to the states or the federal government or the power districts of the farm areas or the municipalities on a basis of salvaging whatever they can of their investment.

What is the economic justification for the government's going into the power business out here? Certainly there is a huge surplus of power capacity already. Thus one company has a dam at Ariel which with an additional $5,000,000 investment can generate 135,000 kilowatts whereas the Bonneville dam with the present investment of $47,000,000 will generate about 90,000 kilowatts. Not all of the $43,000,000 of course will be charged off to power. But assuming that two thirds of it is put on the books as due to navigation a very liberal estimate then the remaining $14,000,000 is chargeable to power and that's just twice as big an amount as would be needed to get through private facilities the same amount of power but actually 50 per cent more capacity than the Bonneville dam's present units would provide.

As to effect on rates the government [illegible] possibly [illegible] generation cost by half a mill according to engineering [illegible] the cost at which the private companies can do it. But [illegible] This saving when spread [illegible] in a sparsely [illegible] state like Oregon [illegible] when [illegible] of transmission and distribution [illegible] the same whether the federal government or the municipalities or the power districts [illegible]

The [illegible] when [illegible] to such an extent as to enable the cost of distribution to be brought down correspond[illegible]

Behind the News

Men and Affairs Under The Washington Spotlight

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON Aug 25 — It sounded like serious international business when Hitler sent a dozen warships to Spain. Under the outmoded rules of 1914 diplomacy it would have meant war. Nations then talked less and fought more.

Now however we have phonetic diplomacy. In measuring the importance of the daily crises in Europe it is necessary to distinguish between sound and substance.

Der Fuehrer has learned from Il Duce that it is cheaper to talk than to fight that the one who talks loudest frequently does not have to fight. He has had no opportunity to show off his navy since he built one. Nor has he had an opportunity to display his newly assumed importance for Germany in world affairs.

The parade of German vessels to Spain was accompanied by the goose stepping of gray clad Nazi troopers at home. The people ate it up. Germany again had a place in the council of nations. Der Fuehrer was indeed the little giant. Heil Hitler.

Outside diplomatists rightly discerned the purpose paid unexcited attention to the move.

Co-Operation

*Britain even gave Hitler a rea*sonable time to impress the world and the people at home before stepping into the picture.

The British seem to understand the phonetics game and go along with it but do not play it very well. It is not easily adapted to the spirit of constitutional govern*ments. You cannot fool the people* easily unless you control the press and all the avenues of their information.

The importance of Hitler's grand stand play faded under Britain's solemn warning that she would not tolerate anything resembling a blockade of Spanish ports. So did the crisis. Italy promptly notified Britain of her acceptance of the French proposals for a joint neutrality pact.

This left the Hitler cheering section suspended in mid air but only for a moment. Britain promptly offering a helping hand with the face saving suggestion that the Spanish government offer an apology for having searched one of Mr Hitler's ships on the high seas.

The only thing which really worries the diplomatists in this simple game is that it is being played with real ammunition instead of blanks.

Servility

The abject confessions which Russia generally produce from her political prisoners are always amazing to American government officials. Usually the accused politician in Russia not only admits the charges against him publicly but insists that his crime was twice as big. The custom is not widespread outside Russia.

Authorities here have no direct line on how the Zinovieff Kamenieff confessions were obtained but they have heard how some similar confessions have developed in the past.

Only the uninitiated believe the old story that the GPU pounds admissions from prisoners with a rubber hose. This honored and ancient police method has been widely used at times but seldom promotes the volunteer spirit so distinctive in Russian confession. In fact it usually leads to repudiations of confessions later in open court.

Russian officials have found it more effective to barter with their prisoners on a more practical basis. They have the power of life death comfort and happiness over all the relatives and friends of the accused the wife children sweethearts. An accused prisoner generally appreciates the hopelessness of his own escape and can often be induced to give the Soviets the kind of a propaganda confession they want in return for promises of protection to loved ones whose names are never publicly mentioned.

It has been done more than once.

Puppets

Every time trouble breaks out in Europe Japan moves again in China. This has been established Japanese policy since 1931.

As soon as world diplomats concentrated their attention on Spain the Japanese ambassador to China Shigeru Kawagoe got busy. He sent a calling invitation to snakes eldest Gen Sung Cheh Yuan chairman of the so-called Hopei Chahar political council. Such an invitation from a Japanese ambassador is a command to any official of the North China government.

The old warrior was advised by the ambassador that his government should ask Japan for financial and technical assistance to exploit the natural resources of North China. Later the ambassador announced to foreign correspondents in Peiping that the general was in complete agreement with the suggestion. He did not go to the trouble of adding that the general had a choice of being in agreement or out of a job.

New York Notes

O O McIntyre's Diary of Fact Fancy and Folks

NEW YORK Aug 25—The Strand theater building is known in the Broadway hablness a both Heartbreak House and Amateurs Paradise. On the third floor is the bevy of offices to which eager eyed aspirants to various amateur hour bridge from all over hugging the Big Ambition.

This floor is the clearing house of dreams—the rose tinted medium and utterly forlorn. The amateur business is nothing new to the agency trade. There have been many since the day of Tony Pastor's. Recruiting branch boys and girls for the hook or a five spot.

Of course since the Major Bowes and Fred Allen triumphs on the air along with the veritable army of lesser amateur exploiters this type of agency flourishes like the fabled cedars of Lebanon. And all amateurs seep up to the Strand's third floor to bivouac for call.

No one knows of course how long the amateur appeal will last. One day it seems on the wane and the next booming. But one thing certain there is no limit to the noble rising supply of talent. There's 80 per cent more good stuff available than is usable even with the increased outlet.

Rae Van Buren is considered a fashion plate among illustrators. Even topping at times James Montgomery Flagg and the extravagantly shirted Russell Patterson. Like most nifty dressers his ensembles are studies in color contrasts. Some day the hue is an autumnal leaf brown and the next a delicate shade of ash gray relieved by touches of salmon pink. Men who illustrate incidentally are almost invariably smart dressers. The Leyendecker brothers in full evening spread always suggested two nonchalants stepping out the clothing ads. Arthur William Brown was first to give color to the blue shirt with collar and canary yellow tie. In the Broadway division Ham Fisher totes the flag by honor. Dean Cornwell is considered one of the better dressed in London and New York. While illustrators are Brummels painters are usually the opposite. In fact they are inclined to stress unkemptness. Bob Al Harris is an exception.

The smokers' realm on public conveyances has been vastly enlarged. Once. Last two rows for smokers. Now. Rear half for smokers. And seldom observance of restrictions. People smoke in any seat they occupy. On an avenue bus top the other evening were nine women smokers to three men. To say nothing of the expensively furred grimalkin who came up the circular stairway near Saks smoking a small-sized cigar. A red haired looking Lillian Russell.

Today I was thinking of those rakish juveniles with the grins of gigolos who strutted back and forth a la Harry Pilcer before a musical comedy line of cuties caroling some man has broke the bank at Monte Carlo chanson. Portugal Stands in Danger Spot

Peasant Born Dictator [illegible] Difficult Task

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press [illegible]

NEW YORK Aug [illegible] Portugal which [illegible] of the war riven Spain [illegible] of jigsaw puzzle is [illegible] dangerous and uncomfortable [illegible] position that represents [illegible] the fuse [illegible] which has been threatening to explode in the whole [illegible] at Spanish revolution.

The maintenance of [illegible] in the face of events already have [illegible] clashes at arms between [illegible] guese and Spanish government troops on the [illegible] difficult. And Europe [illegible] that the intervention of a [illegible] would set off an ex[illegible]

Further Portugal's [illegible] makes her a [illegible] for war supplies for the [illegible] ing forces. Other nations [illegible] sidering a general neutrality [illegible] have insisted she not only [illegible] to keep hands off but [illegible] the passage of war [illegible] through her territory.

His Word Law

To speak of the Portuguese government [illegible] is to refer to one man — Dictator Dr Antonio de Oliveira Salazar. This 48-year-old [illegible] former professor of economics [illegible] law—in other words the [illegible]

His decisions are made the more difficult because Portugal [illegible] does not want victory to come to the radical Spanish government which is supported by communists and anarchists.

His foreign policies normally would follow closely those of Great Britain. The two nations are bound together by the oldest of European alliances dating from 1384. Portugal for the most part has pursued the lead of England through the centuries and it was that alliance which brought Portugal into the World war on the side of her friend.

Attends Mass Daily

Britain may not want the Spanish government to succeed either but she recognizes the danger of intervention and has urged all nations to adopt a hands off attitude. Her advice to her tiny comrade is not to become involved in the desperate conflict across the border.

Dr Oliveira Salazar never enters into his office in the morning before attending mass in a simple Catholic chapel.

In this respect he shows a similarity to the man whose advice he may seek in the present crisis — Premier Stanley Baldwin of Britain. Mr Baldwin once told this writer I believe it is impossible for any person to go through [illegible] bearing great responsibility and not break under it unless there is Divine guidance.

A Lone Wolf

Oliveira Salazar has a strong will and an unlimited capacity for work. He often labors 20 hours a day. He is a lone wolf with few friends—a mystery man who prefers solitude as he attacks his task.

Despite his long hours the dictator takes only two light meals a day and he touches no [illegible] He lives in a modest flat on the outskirts of Lisbon. An aged housekeeper as mysterious as her master attends to his simple wants. She rarely speaks to anyone but concentrates on keeping the apartment neat and preparing the doctor's frugal fare.

As a boy Oliveira Salazar was not robust. His peasant father finding him incapable of guiding a plow sent him to a Jesuit seminary. While his sister—[illegible] and brothers—did men's work on the paternal farm [illegible] amassed knowledge. He had a flare for mathematics philosophy and economics—and he had ambition.

Little Known To People

The Jesuit rector saw the [illegible] gifts and sent him to Coimbra, Portugal's ancient university. [illegible] was graduated in philosophy [illegible] economics and soon became a professor.

In 1928 President Carmona offered him the ministry of [illegible] and a free hand to restore the country's prosperity. In 1932 Oliveira Salazar became premier retaining the finance portfolio. A year later he turned the [illegible] into a corporate state with a constitution and [illegible] dictatorial powers.

A LETTER FROM A LADY, EH? WELL, I HOPE SHE HAS NO INTENTIONS OF COMING TO THIS VILLAGE
THE LAST LADY VISITOR TURNED OUT TO BE A PRINCESS, CAPTAIN
HM—WELL, DUFFY, THAT'S THAT!
WHAT'S WHAT, SIR?
I'VE A HUNCH WE'RE GOING TO BE PRETTY BUSY AGAIN SOON, SPUD—
NOT A THING TO DO SINCE WE TAMED THE UBANGI, TIM—
YOUR HUNCH WAS RIGHT, TIM
WONDER WHY THE CAPTAIN SAID HE WANTS THIS ROOM DONE CLEANER THAN A DUTCH KITCHEN, SPUD?

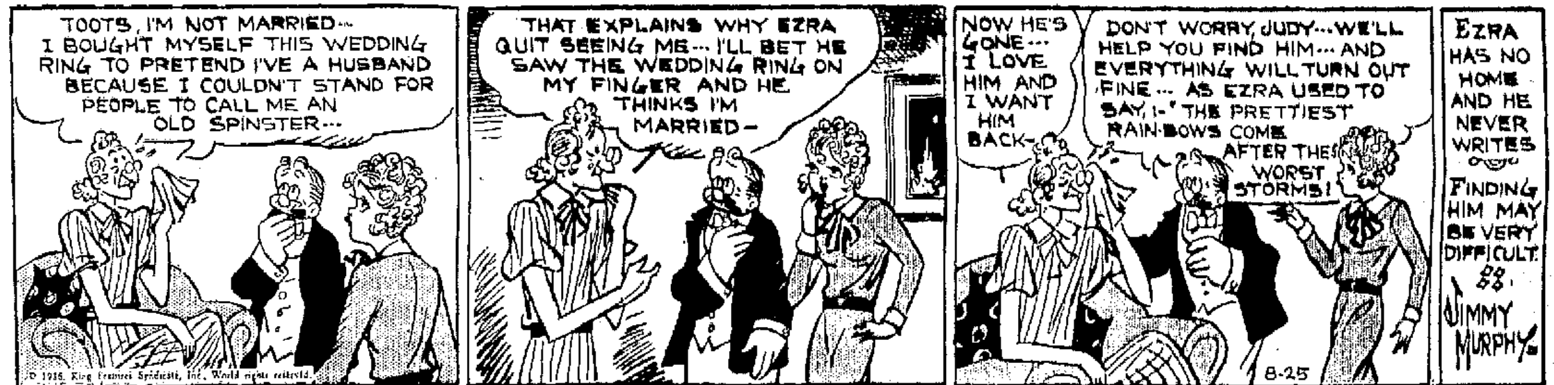
Toots and Casper

By Jimmie Murphy



TOOTS, I'M NOT MARRIED—I BOUGHT MYSELF THIS WEDDING RING TO PRETEND I'VE A HUSBAND BECAUSE I COULDN'T STAND FOR PEOPLE TO CALL ME AN OLD SPINSTER—
THAT EXPLAINS WHY EZRA QUIT SEEING ME—I'LL BET HE SAW THE WEDDING RING ON MY FINGER AND HE THINKS I'M MARRIED—
NOW HE'S GONE—I LOVE HIM AND I WANT HIM BACK—
DON'T WORRY, JUDY—WE'LL HELP YOU FIND HIM—AND EVERYTHING WILL TURN OUT FINE—AS EZRA USED TO SAY, "THE PRETTIEST RAINBOWS COME AFTER THE WORST STORMS!"
8-25
EZRA HAS NO HOME AND HE NEVER WRITES. FINDING HIM MAY BE VERY DIFFICULT.

I THINK YOU ARE RIGHT—HE DOES SEEM LONESOME FOR HIS PALS—
I'LL GO IN AND TELL HIM THAT HE CAN GO OUT TONIGHT AND SEE THE GANG—
YEH—DINTY, WE SURE DID PUT IT OVER ON MAGGIE LAST NIGHT—SHE THOUGHT I WUZ WITH BARON WASTELAND—I'LL GIVE HER THE SAME EXCUSE TONIGHT—SHE WON'T SUSPECT A THING—

SELECT STOCKS MOVE FORWARD

News of Better Business Spurs Advance by Steels, Amusements and Sugars.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—Another jogging stock market today pushed selected steels, amusements and sugars up fractions to 3 or more points.

Buying stimulus was provided by additional cheering business and industrial news. There was no rush for the general run of equities, however, and near the fourth hour the activity was small.

Prominent on the forward thrust were Crown Cork, U. S. Steel Common and Preferred, Bethlehem Crucible Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Loew's, Twentieth Century-Fox, Warner Bros., Servel, American Telephone, Westinghouse, du Pont, Allied Chemical, South Porto Rico Sugar, Fajardo Sugar and American Sugar Refining.

Bonds of the convertible class were again popular. Commodities, including grain and cotton futures, were mixed.

Foreign currencies were quiet.

Amusement issues attracted favorable attention on reports that many moving picture theatres are showing to capacity crowds.

It was noted that some merchants predict retail trade in September will register an increase over the same 1935 period fully equal to the improvement shown during the past three months.

The roseate outlook was said to be predicated partly on the steady sales trend during the usual slack summer season.

At the beginning of foreign exchange transactions sterling and the French franc were unchanged at $5.03 1-8 and 6.58 7-16 cents, respectively.

LATE RALLIES SEND CORN AND WHEAT UP

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 25—Late session rallies of about 2 cents in corn and 1½ cents in wheat erased early losses in the grain market today. Corn closed at net gains for the session.

Buying of corn contracts, particularly those for September delivery, was associated with advices that the Argentine government would aid farmers in holding their corn in anticipation of higher prices. Private reports indicating rains have stopped threshing in some parts of Saskatchewan province, Canada, were credited with influencing late buying and scattered short covering in wheat.

Opening ⅝@1 cent lower, Sept. 1.10@10¾, Dec. 1.09⅛@¼ wheat later fluctuated around this level. Corn started ⅛@1½ down, Sept. 1.10⅝@¾, Dec. 95⅜@½, and then rallied.

FRENCH CLAIM LINER RECORD

Show Figures in Dispute Over Normandie and Queen Mary Sea Crossings

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK Aug 25—French line officials dragged out some 14 month-old figures last night to show their Normandie is still faster than the Queen Mary despite the record-smashing westward voyage completed yesterday morning by Britain's ace liner.

Meanwhile U S naval officers had a good laugh over the blue ribbon controversy remarking that the U S aircraft carriers Lexington and Saratoga can run circles around either of the contestants.

We've still got the fastest big ships in the world it was said at navy headquarters and records backed up the statement.

Both French and British steamship officials however denied there would be any quarrel over possession of the Harold Keats Hales trophy for the fastest ocean crossing and they would abide by the decision of the trophy committee.

The surprise package of the French officials is a claim that the Normandie returning from its maiden trip in June 1935 averaged 30.31 knots for a 3115 mile voyage of four days six hours and 40 minutes from New York's Ambrose Light to Plymouth.

The Queen Mary averaged 30.01 knots in covering 3008 miles from Cherbourg breakwater to Ambrose Light in four days seven hours and 12 minutes. This beat the Normandie's best westward average speed of 29.64 knots and elapsed time from Southampton by four hours 30 minutes.

BRICKER STANDS FIRM AGAINST NEW TAXES

Says Revenue Appropriated for State Fair Is Used To Advertise Governor.

By The Associated Press

WILKESVILLE O Aug 25 — Addressing a tri-county Republican rally here yesterday Atty Gen John W Bricker the nominee for governor said he stood squarely on the Republican platform pledge for no additional taxes of any kind.

Bricker said the taxpayers money appropriated to advertise the state fair is being used to advertise the governor and the employes of the old age pension division are being used to send out the governor's political mail while checks for the pensioners are being held up.

With mounting taxes on every side the taxpayer sees his money being used these days in an attempt to fool him into perpetuating in power the most unscrupulous greedy and grasping group of politicians—the Daveyites and Poulsonites—that ever set foot in the state house, Bricker declared.

WOMAN RUN OVER BY TRAIN DIES AT CAREY

Special to The Star

CAREY O Aug 25—Mrs Grace Lora Bayles 50 who was run over by 15 freight cars as she lay between the rails on Aug 3 died suddenly Sunday night at her home in Carey.

Mrs Bayles was a victim of her own failure to heed a frequent warning she had given her children never to crawl under a waiting train when going to or from their home friends said.

Hurrying home from a grocery store on Aug 3 to prepare the evening meal Mrs Bayles became impatient at waiting for a Big Four freight train to clear the railroad crossing near her home and started to crawl underneath. The train started up and 15 cars passed over her as she lay between the rails. Parts of the undercarriage struck her.

At the Findlay hospital examination showed her back was broken in addition to severe face lacerations and a bruised left arm. A cast was placed on the injured back and last week she was removed to her home.

Apparently convalescing she was out of bed for a short time Sunday and ate with her family. She died suddenly Sunday night. A clot which formed in the blood stream caused her death the physician said.

BOARD STUDIES ROAD HAZARD

School Officials Seek Elimination of Dangerous Crossing Over C. & O

Marion county commissioners acting on a request from the Pleasant township school board yesterday took steps to determine the possibility of reconstructing the Dunbar road in Pleasant township described by the school board as a traffic hazard.

The hazard exists at the point where the Dunbar road crosses the Chesapeake & Ohio railway about a mile and one half northeast of Neamans members of the board stated in a letter to the commissioners.

After discussing the board's request for aid in correction of the crossing the commissioners instructed County Engineer Carl Tozzer to arrange a meeting with members of the C & O engineering staff Pleasant township trustees and the commissioners. The meeting probably will be held next Monday at the crossing where a survey will be made to determine what steps would be necessary to remedy the hazard.

The road crosses the railway at a right angle and on a steep incline. Members of the school board said the crossing endangers Pleasant township school children who cross it four times daily as well as all other motorists.

One remedy that is being considered contemplates relocation of the approach to the crossing so as to eliminate the sharp angle and thereby make possible a gradual approach to the railway.

The Dunbar road now parallels the C & O before it turns sharply across the tracks. Relocation of the road's approach to the tracks would require easements from property owners through whose land the road would be extended the commissioner said. Cost of the improvement should be borne jointly by the township county and the railway they explained. No estimate of the cost is yet available.
